

1 November 1962

Continued Alpha G Plotting

Moscow TASS in English to Europe 1105 GMT 31 October 1962--L

(Text) New York--It follows from new agency reports that the Cuban counterrevolutionary scum, entrenched in the United States and some other countries in the Western Hemisphere, is still hatching plans for the invasion of Cuba. According to UPI, Jose Miro Cardona, the ringleader of the Cuban emigres, told correspondents on 30 October that the Revolutionary Council he heads has reserved the right to use force to overthrow Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro, irrespective of the formula for settling the present crisis.

It follows from an AFP report from Miami that several ships of the naval raiding group of the Cuban emigres Alpha G sailed to the shores of Cuba last week when the international crisis caused by the U.S. blockade of Cuba was at its height, in order to attack military objectives on that island. However, the expedition was abortive.

The New York TIMES admits that the Cuban emigres hoped that the blockade proclaimed by the United States would lead to the invasion of Cuba. Even after the exchange of messages between Nikita Khrushchev and John Kennedy, they pledged themselves to continue the struggle against the Castro regime with the object of liberating the island.